The Y. M. C. A. Presents a Fine Showing of Its Enterprise and the Great Benefits It Confers Upon Young Men and the City.

The annual meeting of the Y. M. C. A. occurred last night in the parlors of the association. There was a good attendance. President Day's report embodied a reference to the difficulties surrounding the erection of the building and the efforts to pay the expense of furnishing it. The expectation had been that light and fuel would cost the associabut $60 per month; instead it cost them $200 per month. The purchase of apparatus and furniture had put the association in debt some $2,000, and money which should have been applied to the current expenses, from the necessities of the case, was used to pay for permanent improvements. A subscription for current funds had failed to realize what was expected. This state of affairs, the president said, made it evident, first, that the improvements so much needed could not be made at the time. "It is evident," said he, "that we cannot give to young men the privileges now offered them, unless the small fee of $5 now charged them annually is supplemented by a liberal annual sub-scription by the friends of the association. I recommend, therefore, that the charge for mem-bership be increased. The necessity for taking this step is a severe disappointment to me, as I had the ambition for the association that it should afford its members all the benefits now given at as small a tee as is charged by any similar association in the land." The president also recommended the curtailment of the present running expenses of the association; also the adoption of a plan pursued by other associato such persons as desired to give them to worthy young men of their acquaintance. He further recommended pushing the project of junior department in the association. Mr. Day declined a renomination for the office of presi-

The report of the general secretary, Mr. F. W. Douglass, was next presented. The membership is now 1,402, of whom 161 are juniors and dol are seniors. Of the juniors of are tive and 98 associate members; 123 attended school and 38 are of miscellaneous occupations. Of the seniors 392 are active and 489 associate members. There are 163 book-keepers, 26 drygoods clerks, 18 druggists, 13 grocery clerks, 24 insurance agents, 8 jewelry clerks, 12 boot and shoe clerks, 34 lawyers, 5 musical students, 13 laborers in factories, 23 printers, 8 physicians, 10 railroad conductors or brakemen, 29 telegraph operators, 7 tailors, 25 traveling men, 56 attending school, 38 ministers, 7 machinists, 5 bakers and 3 carpenters. There are also blacksmiths, undertakers, paper-hangers, draughtemen, cigar-makers, book-binders and representatives of other trades, and of the active members 130 are Presbyterians, 117 Methodists, 7 Lutherans, 4 German Reformed, 13 Friends, 27 Episcopalians, 18 Congregationalists, 18 Christian, 47 Baptiste, 9 miscellaneous. Of the associate members 97 are Methodists, 66 Presbyterian and 7 attend the Hebrew synagogue.
It was recommended that winter classes be maintained during the coming season in bookkeeping, penmanship, short-hand and typewriting, free-hand and mechanical drawing, vo-cal music, German and arithmetic; that there be two terms of twelve weeks each, the first term commencing Monday, Oct. 1, and closing Dec. 22; that tuition in each study be given twice a week; that a compensation of $10 per month be paid to the instructors in each branch of study; that a fee of $1 per term be charged for each course to members of the association, and that young men of good character who are not numbers of the association be permit-ted to jois the class at $2 per term.

The committee on lectures and entertainment report the fellowing for the coming season: The Valda Grand Concert Company, George W. Cable, Lew Wallace, the Suzzelle Musical and Dramatic Illustrated Recitals, J. Whitcomb Riley and George Kennan. The course is to begin Nov. 21, with the Valda Concert Company. The cost for course to members will be $1, and Methodist Ministers.

At the Methodist ministers' meeting yesterday norning, Rev. Dr. Murphy, of Ottumwa, Is., was present, and made an address concerning the condition of the church in that State. He said there were 90,000 Methodists there, and the denomination was flourishing. There were five Methodist colleges at present, but the expectation is to combine these into one large university, to be located at the State capital, and to be made one of the greatest in the country. The meeting discussed, in an informal way, the Young People's Method'st Alliance, which is being organized in the city, and agreed that it was a move-ment that should be given every encouragement. An adjournment was then taken until the second Monday in October on account of the fact that many of the pastors will be away at conference in the intervening time.

WESTERN YEARLY MEETING.

What Was Done at Plainfield on Sunday-The Mission Work Among Indians.

special to the Indianapolis Journal PLAINFIELD, Sept. 17.-The afternoon session of Saturday had under consideration the report of the committee appointed to attend the Richmond conference in September last. This conference was made up of representatives of all the Yearly Meetings in the world, thirteen in number-London, Dublin, New England, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, North Carolina, Obio, Indiana, Western, Iowa, Canada and Kansas. Various subjects were discussed bearing upon the general interests of all. A statement of doctrine was formulated, approved and submitted to the several Yearly Meetings. Western Yearly Meeting was the last in order to receive it. The meeting gave it a full and cordial approval, and ordered it printed with the minutes of the meeting and 5,000 extra copies printed for distribu-tion to such as desired to obtain it. The con-fession of faith thus formulated contains noth-ing new. It is but a verification of the state-ments of their faith, and by the different Yearly Meetings as found in their disciplines, and fro m the great unanimity of its approval, the doctrinal unity of the society remains as complete as in the first half century of its history. At 7 P. M., Saturday, Prof. Boon, of the State University, delivered a very entertaining and instructive address in the meeting hall, and a meeting was also held for the benefit of the Reform-school boys, by H. Stanley Newman, Jeremiah Hubbard and B. C. Hobbs. Faithful William and Lucy Faithful, the Modoc Indian visitors, were present with their missionary, J. Hubbard. Both Mr. Newman and Mr. Hubbard make a specialty of talking to boys, and their visit was highly appreciated. About 500 are now well cared for in the institution. The usual devotional meeting commenced at 8 A. M., Sabbath, with good attendance and in terest. The weather was wet and cool, yet by 19 o'clock the grounds indicated four or five thousand persons present. Arrangements had been made for three meetings-one in the house, one under a tent, and one on the lawn. Recurring showers made the last impracticable. The house was part of the time well-filled, and is estimated to hold 2,500 persons. Henry Stanley Newman, David Baker and others were heard. The former was very entertaining in his earnest interpretation of the shepherds and their sheep. He stated that in his visit to Jerusalem he found a large space, used as a sheep fold, inside the city, inclosing one of the pools connected with the underground aqueduct. It would hold more than a thousand sheep, and many shepherds would bring their flocks there of evenings for safety during the night. A chief shepherd stands at the gate, and will let none but fit ones enter. The shepherds would sleep with their sheep, or go to their homes for the night. In the morning when they were ready to lead their sheep to their pastures, each shepherd had a definite call, which his sheep knew, and each flock would come out from the mingled multitude of sheep to their shepherd, who would count them, and if any were missing he would wait till they came. Being all numbered and named, he would call the absent one by name, as Blue Eve, Spot Ear, etc., till all came, when they would go to the "green pastures," and where they could find the "still waters," of which the shepherd, David, sang. His application was made very in-In the evening a meeting was held which had been appointed by Nathan and Esther G. Frame. Prayer was offered by B.C. Hobbs. William Wooton and Nathan Frame alternated by song, after which the meeting was addressed by Esther G. Frame. Her first purpose was to show the effectiveness of persistent perseverence prompted by faith. No one can practically succeed without faith in his purpose, and an earnest desire to understand how to accomplish it. The farmer works by faith and by seeing what must be done, so does the merchant and banker. So the unsaved must believe, accept the terms, and lay hold of the hope of salvation. It is a covenant. Man must do his part in accepting, repenting and turning to God for par-don, and the Lord can then pardon and bless.

Devotional meeting and the representativ business meetings were held this morning at 10 A. M. Yearly Meeting at large resumed its regular session. A synopsis of the addresses of the different speakers on "the state of society," which was under consideration on a former occasion, was read, as follows: Whole number of members, 13,153; increase, 571; number who use tobacco, 1.315; number who sell tobacco, 45; number of meetings, 92;

number of ministers recorded, 149. The lows epistle was next received and read. In joint session the report of the Indian com-mittee was considered. They reported missionaries among the bands in the Indian Territory, where the mission work has been distributed, in the Quanaw and other agencies as far West as the Absentees and Kickapoos, includ-ing Quanaws, Modocs, Ottawas, Wyandotts, Senecas, Cherokees. Absentees, Shawnees and the Kickapoos. The work in North Carolina among the Eastern Cherokees has been very successful. The five-day schools have had an increased attendance, and there is an increasing interest among the adult Indians in education. They would have compulsory education if they could. The training-school has had under care twenty boys and twenty-one girls. Next year the number will be doubled. The day and training-schools are educating about 300 children, all Cherokees. They delight in school work and excel in penmanship, spelling and drawing. When once they learn English they progress as rapidly as whites of their age. Girls are trained in all the domestic arts, and boys in farm, garden, nursery management and culture. They milk, do all kinds of work about a farm, and make and mend

BASE-BALL FIELD.

Rain Prevents the Game Here and Only Two Clubs Eisewhere Make a Showing. About three hundred people went out to the ball park yesterday afternoon. It sprinkled more or less all forenoon, and the clouds threatened still more of it. Play was called a little late, and before the first inning was over a slow, cold drizzie began to comedown, and the players were glad to hear Valentine shout "Time."
Neither side had scored. Whitney was pitching for the Washingtons, and Burdick, who seems to have no objections whatever to earning his salary, was in the box for the home team. Al Myers got a base on balls in the Washington half and Denny made a hit in the last half. Seery should have been given a base on balls, but Valentine refused to change his decision after having called three balls instead of four. When Bennett came to the bat, Denny having stolen second, the umpire called play, and after a wait of balf an hour, announced no game. The bad weather is a terrible disappointment to the stockholders of the club, who were depending upon this week for good returns.

Two Games To-Day. Local patrons of base-ball will to-day be given the privilege of seeing two games for one admission price-something that has never been offered in this city before. The first game will begin at 2 o'clock. The pitchers will probably be Burdick and Whitney. The second game will start as soon as the other is completed, with Boyle and O'Day as the probable pitchers.

Their opponents will be a club made up of old Southern League players. The venture is a lit-tle side affair which the boys will share in alike, and they expect to make something handsome. The secret of the St. Louis Browns' great sacrifico hits has leaked out. The team has three or four flat bats, especially for sacrifice hitting, and when a man is to be advanced a player takes up his bat and faces for a right-field hit. The flat bat ides was put in by Manager Wright, who has all along advocated sacrifice hitting. "A man who claims to be a first-class ball player and can't sacrifice should quit ball playing," says Manager Wright.-Plain-An amusing event in a recent ball game at Portland, Me., settled the question of who should be the winning club. An ur successful endeavor was made to catch a base-runner papping on first, and then the first baseman pocketd the ball. The pitcher made a motion as if to pitch the ball and the base-runner started for second. The first baseman tried to get the ball out of his pocket to touch the runner out, but it would not come and the run was scored. This occurred in the last half of the ninth, when the score was tied .- Exchange. A singular incident happened in the Cincinnati's second game in Baltimore, on the recent Eastern trip. Carpenter was at the bat, with two bands out, and base-runners at second and third. He foul-tipped a ball which was audible to everyone in the stands, and Cantz, who was catching, claimed an out. Umpire Goldsmith did not bear it, and appealed to Carpenter. "You are umpiring the game,"remarked "Hick." Cantz's claim was not allowed, and the next moment the Reds' third baseman lined out a beautiful single, which sent in what proved to be the winning run.

The "Corner" in Copper. New York, Sept. 17.—The agents here of the French syndicate have got complete control of the copper market, and the few "short" sales made here in the early spring for delivery during the last three months of the year are of no consequence; still, these sellers appear anxious to close their outstanding sales, and are bidding up the price, one against the other, 171 being bid for September and October, and 17.20 for November and December, without, however, leading to business. Tin, which broke in London on Friday to £99 10s spot, and £100 futures, closed to-day at £103 5s spot, and £103 15s futures, with an excited market. The London stock of tin, as made up to-day, is the lowest for the last twelve months, baving been reduced to about 3,600 tons, as against 18,500 tons on May 1, when the great break took place. The sales of lead to-day amounted to between 1,300 to 1,400 tons—the largest one day's sales in the history of the Exchange. During the past two months not less than between 20,000 and 25,000 tons of lead have been dealt in openly, besides large quantities by private contract, the bulk of which was bought by one prominent house in the trade. Every effort is being made to maintain present prices. Every offering has so far been taken at from $4.924 to $4.95 for September and October delivery.

The Hatfield-McCoy Desperadoes.

CATLETTSBURG, Ky., Sept. 17 .- Another raid was made by the McCoys on the Hatfield settle ment, Friday last, and, as usual, the West Virginians were worsted. The following account of the affair was received by Supt. M. R. Goble last night: "The McCoy crowd made a raid yes terday and attempted the arrest of one of our innocent citizens, Richard Casey, a person who never had anything to do with the trouble. They were stopped before they succeeded. Their presence and action so enraged our neighborhood that nearly every man on the creek (Peter) took his gun and went in pursuit. They came upon the West Virginia boys at Pawpaw mountain, where a lively battle took place. In the melee two of the West Virginians were killed and two more badly wounded. None of the Kentucky boys were hurt. Our county is in a terrible state of excitement just now. The West Virginians say they will have revenge in some way. The Kentuckians are ready for them at any time." Just what will be the outcome of the feud no one can tell. During the last month the West Virginians have raided the kentuckians twice, and have lost live men killed outright, while the old Commonwealth shows an unbroken front.
